

Netflix Movies and TV shows

Netflix started as DVD rentals, and now they have an audience of over 150m people - this is their story. Now we've seen how Netflix came to dominate our TV screens, let's have a look at the content they offer.

We see vastly more movies than TV shows on Netflix. So, there are about 4,000++ movies and almost 2,000 TV shows, with movies being the majority. There are far more movie titles (69,7%) than TV shows titles (30.3%) in terms of title.

Percentage of Netflix Titles that are either Movies or TV Shows

By Country

The most prolific producers of content for Netflix are, primarily, the USA, with India and the UK a significant distance behind.

It makes sense that the USA produces the most content, Afterall, Netflix is a US company.

Top 10 countries on Netflix

The three most frequent countries have been highlighted.

Ratings

Rating distribution by Film & TV Show

'We observe that some ratings are only applicable to Movies.

The most common for both Movies & TV Shows are TV-MA and TV-14

Rating distribution by Film & TV Show

Month-by-Month

'Content added by month

The end & beginnings of each year seem to be Netflix's preference for adding content

Content added by month [Cumulative Total]

How old are the movies? [Average]

The average gap between when content is released, and when it is then added on Netflix varies by country.

In Spain, Netflix appears to be dominated by newer movies whereas Egypt & India have an older average movie.

How old are the movies? [Average]

Conclusions:

The most content type on Netflix is movies, The largest count of Netflix content is made with a "TV-14" rating, The country by the amount of the produces content is the United States.

Reference: Dataset sourced from Kaggle.com